BUILDING A WINNER

It's one of the most thrilling scenes to witness in road racing: the sprint finish. A full peloton charging toward the line. A blur of colors, a rush of speed. To emerge from the chaos and streak across the finish line first—it's something every racer dreams of.

The new Propel Advanced SL aero road bike was made for these moments. It was developed over the course of a full season of collaboration with top Giant sprinters including Theo Bos. Extensive testing—in the wind-tunnel and out on the road—led to a bike that achieves a whole new level of performance.

The result: With the help of the Propel Advanced SL, Bos completed his transformation from being the world's fastest track sprinter to a winning pro road racer.

"The first time I rode it, I knew this was the bike that would give me an advantage in the sprints," Bos said. "These are the times when every fraction of a second counts."

After a year of refining prototypes, the new aero road bike was finally ready for Bos at the start of the 2013 season. It was exactly what he needed. After three years of steady but hard-won progress in his road-racing ambitions, Bos reached a new level. He started beating the best sprinters in the world. And the legend of the Propel Advanced SL was born.
